

ImageNet pretraining is less advantageous than previously thought for medical imaging, and its benefit should be evaluated case by case.

Training set size, training time, and model size cannot reliably predict whether ImageNet pretraining will be beneficial.